

Summer Reading Excitement!

Summer Reading is off to a great start! The special programs for children held at the Tillamook Library have seen over 100 people in attendance each week. We have over 500 kids signed up already, and many are already receiving prizes! It's not too late to sign up for any of our summer reading programs.

Adult Summer Reading

The grown-ups are having just as much fun as the kids! Adults can look forward to several special programs in July, including visits from the Haugen's, Oregon Birdman Karl Andersen, and author Michael Randall. We also have two practical programs on recycling and seed saving, where you can pick up tips for your home. See the column to the right for specific event information. All events are free.

Teen Summer Reading

Teen summer reading is off and running! There are so many events for teens, both at the Tillamook Library and at the Pacific City Library. Any teenager ages 13-18 is welcome to attend. They are all free!

Highlighting new books worth reading

The Civil War in 50 objects by Harold Holzer

When an era is long enough past that no one alive remembers it, it can be more difficult to really understand that history. The Civil War in 50 objects showcases 50 items from the Civil war, and each is thoroughly explained to help bring this time to life. Shown in color, it's a fascinating way to relate to history.
