

Women's Suffrage Exhibit and Performance

Women in Oregon have had the right to vote for 100 years, and this month we are celebrating this anniversary with a look back. The Tillamook County Library will host the "Votes for Women! The Oregon Story" exhibit during the month of November. Through a generous grant from the Oregon Heritage Commission and matching funds from the Oregon Commission for Women, Century of Action will also be presenting "What's Suffrage Got to Do with It?" This special reenactment of a 1912 Town Hall meeting will be held at the Tillamook County Library on Saturday, November 3rd at 2:00pm. Come and experience what it might have been like when women's suffrage was being debated. For more information visit centuryofaction.org.

Discovering Totem Poles: A Travelers Guide
by Aldona Jonaitis

Part travel guide, part cultural history, this book serves as a fascinating overview of the art of the totem pole. The reader sees at least 25 totems from Alaska to Washington State, and the variety shown makes this a beautiful introduction to a uniquely NW art form.
